SOMETHING CLEVER FOR NOVEMBER

Fall is slowly settling in and we will be entertaining family and friends before we know it. Usher in a tasteful autumn on your porch and in your home with unique seasonal garden accessories, French designed, woodblock-printed table linens, and other fall delights. With the addition of a few important accents, this will be your home's most hospitable holiday ever.

Go beyond a pile of pumpkins and mums for the front entry display. This stately cast stone raven perched on a classic ball finial in a deep black acid wash finish will watch over your entry while adding a touch of drama to your fall vignette.

Entertain Thanksgiving guests with a Blackbirds' Revenge pie placed in a special spot on the front porch, and even indoors on a kitchen counter or as the focal point on a serving buffet.

This Paris-designed tablecloth with pansies will be one of your favorites. In the ancient tradition passed down for generations, hand-carved blocks of teak are used to apply designs in vibrant colors. Each unique piece requires more than 100 well-studied motions. Make it part of your tradition!

WHAT'S NEW IN THE STORE

Remember some of the most beautiful moments in your garden with a Linnea Design garden calendar journal. Plan your plantings and pruning, record your garden's bounty in bloom, keep an annual record to compare results with previous years, record inspirational plant pairings, hold seed packets, photos, and plant labels in handy pockets, and use the grid pages to design the garden of your dreams. It makes a delightful gift.

We are very excited about our new decorative glass. This beautiful handmade transferware vase with peacock design will make a stunning presentation anywhere in your home. The collection also includes wrapped soaps on matching glass trays, candles in pretty tins, and glass trays in various sizes and shapes.

These are perfect small gifts; they can hold jewelry and small treasures or are attractive alone as a table top accent.

This new fountain has the style of an important piece without the mass. Perfect for a patio or small garden space, its simple, pleasant shape will imbue a garden with a tranquil ambiance.

Gnomes have moved in! Grandpa sits reading with his grandson on his lap in their quaint village complete with a working fountain and wishing well. The rural mailbox holds a letter for pickup by the mail-gnome. For garden installation, a retaining wall is also available to surround the house. Down the country road, several chic European cottages await new owners with hospitable gardens! The cottages have removable roofs for illumination with tea lights or storage of small tools, keys, or gloves. These popular cottages make excellent gifts for all ages and occasions.

GET YOUR 2013 CALENDARS

Susan Barnes lives in a cottage by California's Carmel Bay. Her images come from her home and travels. Purchase of her products will help support young people dedicated to protecting the world's oceans. Her calendars are favorites of many customers.

Peter Rolfe is an artist from Portland, Maine. A self-taught artist with a Master's in Business Admin., Rolfe started painting seriously in 1971, opening his art gallery in 1972. He paints primarily with oil, but also watercolor, gouache, acrylic, and pastel. His calendars are another customer favorite.

Linnea Riley designed calendars for years before daughter Hannah took over their design in 2000. Hannah studied art at the University of Oregon and Italy before working at Microsoft. She has designed projects for many national companies prior to taking over Linnea Design.

PAYNE PREMIER CARDS

By the time you receive this, the Payne Premier Card sales will be in full swing. Wilshire Garden Market is among the retailers selling the card. It is amazing that everyone is not aware of this opportunity to help the Payne Education Center, teachers, and students and get save a nice amount on purchases you will make anyway. A card purchased for $50 provides 20% discounts at more than 100 stores from October 26 thru November 4!
